Major Duties:

This position combines enrolment into the full-time PhD Program in Accounting and Finance and teaching-related duties in academic programs offered by the Department. The purpose of the role is to undertake a PhD while gaining teaching-related experience. You will be working alongside world leading academics in a busy, exciting and innovative department.

Duties will include:

- Conducting research toward completion of PhD
- Writing academic working papers in parallel with PhD study
- Marking coursework and degree level examination components
- Deliver a limited number of undergraduate tutorial groups under direction from the module director
- Supporting faculty members around module delivery
- Perform other academic support duties as directed by the Head of Department and PhD Director

You should:

- develop competence to assess material at undergraduate levels;
- develop competence to teach tutorials in undergraduate material

You should be willing to undertake appropriate training in teaching (e.g., Certificate in Academic Practice).
